PORTRAIT OF KHRUSHCHEV BY A TOP CIA OFFICIAL

FORT WORTH—Here is Nikita Khrushchev, as described by the Deputy U. S. Director of Central Intelligence, Gen. C. P. Cabell:

"[Khrushchev] does not come through clearly as a dashing military figure. However, he is all the more dangerous because of the complexity, the subtlety, the patience and the drive which he brings to his personification of international Communism.

"He is the earthy Russian peasant, the skillful, devious bureaucrat, and the undisputed head of a revolutionary conspiracy. Since 1956 he and his cronies have, on more than 40 separate occasions, threatened 75 countries with destruction by rockets with nuclear warheads."
